About the Artist

“Retired” Executive

Inspired to Create!

After years in the corporate world, I retired and converted my office into an art studio.

Every day I am in the studio creating, playing, or experimenting, but always making a happy “mess”!

In April 2026, I partnered with a curated luxury gift shop in the Hamptons, NY, selling my original works of art.

Being retired doesn't mean you're obsolete or irrelevant.

It's time to play and shine!

Mixed Media Artist

Barbara Von Euw (p. von you) is an active member of the Long Island Art League and has an Art Therapy Certificate.

A lifelong art enthusiast, she pursued a commercial art education. After starting her career as a commercial artist, she soon began working in corporate America as a CRM/ Marketing Technology Executive with renowned brands like Tiffany & Co., David Yurman, Vineyard Vines, Tommy Hilfiger, and Cole Haan, among others.

Two years ago, she returned to her passion for art by creating watercolors, acrylics, mono-prints, collages, and mosaics. Living waterside in a Long Island harbor town, she draws inspiration from water, nature, and everyday life.

Commissioned

Barbara aims to bring joy and peace through her art. She was commissioned to create a 3'x5' marine life painting (see here) for a beachside home. This resulted in her being a 2025 finalist in the Long Island Aquarium's 25th Anniversary juried show.
